Worthless Check Charge Postponed

That he attempted to secure goods valued at $120 with a worthless check for $250 was charged against Bernard F. Mahaney in United States branch of Police Court today. The case is contin-ued until Wednesday for hearing.

It is alleged that Mahoney presented check for $250, drawn on the Riggs National Bank, in the jewelry store of Julius Sellinger, on F street. Attemptfalse pretences is the specific charge. It is alleged that prior to presenting the check Mahoney had selected $120 worth of jewelry. The alleged forthless check bore signature "Joseph I. Weller," a real estate broker.

Mahoney, it is said, had several blank checks on the Riggs' National Bank when he was arrested at the Sellinger store by Detectives Howes and Simpson, of the First precinct. The case is continued to give opportunity to the police and Assistant United States Attorney Ralph Given to make further investigation.

asked Detective Smith.
"Smith, that man there," replied Bennett, pointing at Smith, who had been taken to the hospital.

Bennett said Smith had come to him on the night of November 19, and asked him if he would take him to Capitol Heights next morning, and also some tools belonging to him, to Ninth and D streets northwest. He said he promised to do so, and accordingly Smith appeared at his grocery store next morning.

Becoming impatient over the delay in starting, Smith told Bennett, according to the latter, he would walk on ahead. Bennett said he followed Smith, and overtook him near Sixtyfirst and C streets, and a few minutes afterwards was struck on the back of the head. He said he remembered only the one blow, but was positive Smith was the man who hit him.

New Turn Is Given To Kimmel Mystery

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 23.-John B. Swinney, a New Mexico rancher, who swears he saw George A. Kimmel killed in the Oregon forests, has identified a picture of A. J. White, a one time convict, who is said to be posing as the real Kimmel, as that of a convict with whom Swinney served time in the Missouri penitentiary in 1889.

It was the closing sensation of several in Swinney's testimony before F. A. Bacon, attorney for the Kimmel family, who hope te prove Kimmel is dead and collect $25,000 insurance on Kimmel's life.

A test was made by John F. Green, one of the lawyers, to discredit Swinney's story of the finding of hidden treasure. Swinney had testified that the 200 twenty-dollar gold pieces found by him and his companions were in two half-gallon fruit jars and that each jar was a little more than half full.

Green took a half-gallon glass jar to a bank and 200 twenty dollar gold pieces were put into it. The jar was less than one-third full.

Nothing that Coonel Roosevelt has said to the affect that he is not a candidate has checked the ardor of the men who want him renominated. They are proceeding on the theory that he will accept the nomination if it is given him, and that he will make no statement putting himself in a position where he cannot accept, if named.

Taft leaders will be satisfied if the Roosevelt movement can be kept within such bounds that it will merely split the progressive vote while not endangering the renomination of the President. Their fear is that the Roosevelt movement may be so pressed as to make it impossible for the President to get a majority of instructed delegates in a coming convention. They realize that if most of the delegates, go to Chicago without being tied to President Taft, a stampede to Roosevelt may occur. For the present, they are welcoming the placing of Roosevelt's name on the ticket in Nebraska because they think it will divide the progressives.
